

Cookie Statement

Version 1.2 – 22.02.2024

Trans Link Systems B.V. (Translink) does not collect more data than is necessary. It collects this data in the most privacy-friendly way possible. We do not collect IP address data through the website <https://zelfregelen.ovpay.nl>.

If you visit the website <https://zelfregelen.ovpay.nl>, Translink places analytical cookies on the device you use to visit the website. Analytical cookies help us to improve the website, add information or improve ease of use. To detect fraud or prevent potential harm to our website, we have incorporated Google reCAPTCHA (see privacy policy and terms of use of Google). Because analytical cookies hardly affect your privacy, they fall under exceptions in the cookie provisions of the Dutch Telecommunications Act. Translink therefore does not need to ask for your consent to place analytical cookies.

In the table below, we show which analytical cookies we place, the period for which these cookies remain active, the purpose for which we place them, and for how long we retain the data collected with the cookies. Translink does not provide any data collected with analytical cookies to other parties. But we do cooperate with a chain partner (Microsoft) to store the data we obtain from the placed cookies and to make them available to Translink.

Cookie name	Cookie validity period	Purpose	Retention period of the collected data
ai_session	30 minutes	This allows us to link website visits from a single visitor that have lasted half an hour	90 days, as from the website visit

ai_user	1 year	This allows us to gauge how often a visitor visits the website	90 days, as from the website visit
_GRECAPTCHA	180 days	This allows us to detect fraud and prevent for potential harm of our website.	See terms of use of Google.

Translink's cookie statement can change in the future. Amendments take effect as soon as the amended cookie statement is posted. We thus recommend that you check the Translink cookie statement regularly to ensure that you are aware of any amendments.